

The properties of water drive the water cycle, which is fundamental to life on Earth. Developing strategies for water conservation depends on understanding the water cycle and the basic properties of water.